Investment case: systematic capture of asset management alpha

- Alpha is elusive in active management. However, there is evidence of alpha creation in the short term. A systematic approach can help identify it
- AM League systematically tracks and ranks active managers’ alpha, creating “smart alpha” indices. UBP has partnered with AM League to launch an innovative investment solution to capture this alpha
- A “smart alpha” strategy remains systematic and cost-efficient but is largely based on active managers’ stock (and sector) picking. It accesses multiple portfolio managers’ best ideas and hidden talent while not carrying the multiple layers of costs of a fund of funds
- UBAM – Europe Market Neutral provides access to an innovative solution that should provide diversification for traditional portfolios but also for other passive/smart beta type strategies

Fund concept: Generate alpha with a systematic approach, both long and short

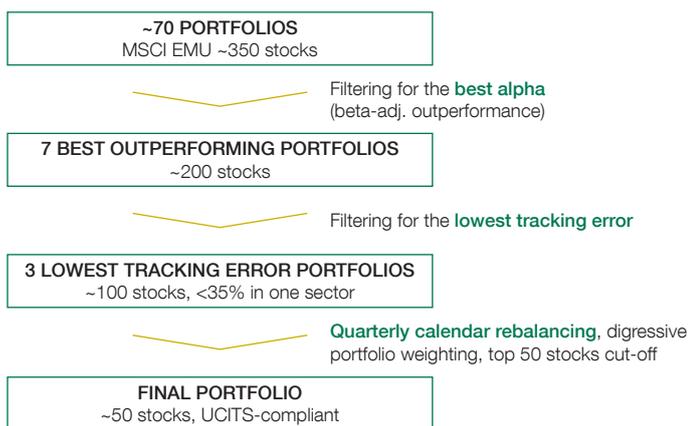

- The fund will combine two complementary alpha-generating engines:
 - A long leg using a smart alpha strategy, composed of the AM League Euro 50A index and applying a systematic selection process resulting in a portfolio of 50 stocks out of the MSCI EMU investment universe. The index is rebalanced on a quarterly basis
 - A short leg using an overlay strategy which implements a dynamic & systematic short equity index exposure, to hedge the beta of the long leg
- The combination of both strategies results in a market-neutral portfolio
- The fund targets a net return of Eonia + 5% per annum with a Sharpe ratio close to 1
