UBAM - GLOBAL EQUITY

Investing globally across the CFROI® lifecycle

The fund invests in a portfolio of 40–60 stocks across all regions and sectors. The highly experienced portfolio management team aims to outperform the global equity index through a proven investment process based on the cash flow return on investment (CFROI®) life cycle principle.

Key points

- Investing in global equities across the CFROI® life cycle, i.e. in a mix of growing, mature and turnaround companies
- Active management of tracking error depending on the investment environment. We expect tracking error to vary between 4% and 8%
- Strong track record for the strategy— it was initially launched in June 2009 as a mandate for an institutional client

Investment case

Active investing in global equities offers investors the potential to participate in the value created by companies involved in global growth opportunities. Opportunities for outperformance come primarily from stock-specific factors, along with the divergence in regional growth prospects, and the differing investment and product cycles across industries.

The team invests across the CFROI® lifecycle, i.e. the conventional progression in profitability that firms and industries face: an initial high growth phase, followed by one of declining profitability as competition erodes returns, until no excess returns are generated.

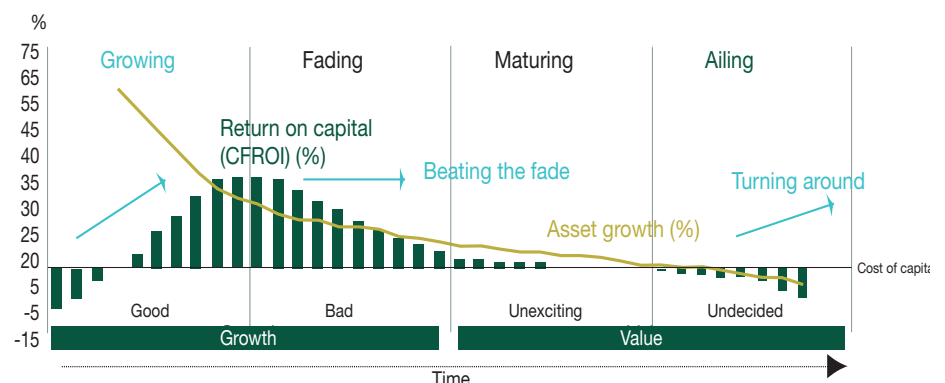

The investment approach aims to capture three alpha opportunities along this cycle: companies that have higher growth than expected by the market; companies that can “beat the fade” through high barriers to entry; and those able to reinvent themselves in difficult periods. The allocations to these three alpha opportunities will depend on the macro environment and the specific stock convictions identified.

Fund concept

The fund invests in a portfolio of typically 40–60 stocks from a wide range of regions and sectors, and across companies’ lifecycle. The investment approach is bottom-up – based on proprietary valuation models that emphasise cash generation (CFROI®) – and also reflects top-down and thematic considerations.

Portfolio tracking error is actively managed. Risk is hence managed according to the team’s views on the markets, increasing tracking error in constructive macroeconomic and stock-picking environments, and decreasing tracking error during less favourable periods.

Investment process

- The bottom-up analysis involves detailed fundamental and quantitative research including ESG criteria, and regular company meetings. The team seeks to identify long-term return potential which is not yet reflected in valuations, by understanding the competitive advantages and management capabilities of each company.
- The top-down perspective gained from meeting with external and internal strategists and macroeconomists allows the team to position the portfolio according to market conditions.
- Portfolio construction is based on the team's assessment of company prospects, catalysts and risks, and contribution to tracking error.
- Risk management takes into account portfolio beta, tracking error and stock intercorrelations.
- Portfolio tracking error is actively managed i.e. the team varies the amount of risk taken according to their view of the market environment and opportunity set.
