UBAM - EMERGING MARKET CORPORATE BOND SHORT DURATION

Access the high-return potential of emerging market bonds with low exposure to global interest-rate risk

UBAM - Emerging Market Corporate Bond Short Duration provides investors with access to the attractive yields offered by bonds issued by emerging market corporate issuers, with limited interest-rate risk and the comfort of a built-in liquidity buffer.

Key points

- Exposure to the emerging corporate bond market to benefit from higher yields than comparable debt instruments issued by developed market corporates
- Investment in short-term bonds to reduce interest-rate sensitivity
- Active and rigorous credit risk management
- Built-in liquidity buffer ensuring daily subscriptions and redemptions

Investment case

Emerging market (EM) issuers should benefit from the higher growth prospects of emerging economies, as well as from their lower leverage compared with developed markets' high-yield corporate issuers.

EM corporate bonds denominated in hard currencies offer higher yields than their developed market (DM) peers. The average portfolio duration of around 2 limits exposure to government interest rates. The fund thus offers attractive carry, with limited volatility.

Fund concept

UBAM - Emerging Market Corporate Bond Short Duration invests mainly in short-duration bonds denominated in hard currencies that are issued by EM corporates. It actively manages risk through diversification and the close monitoring of credit fundamentals to avoid defaults.

To ensure sufficient liquidity, the fund also invests around 20% of its assets in highly-rated DM securities, with an overlay in high-yield or EM CDX, which replicates a long position in credit markets and can be reduced in periods of elevated market volatility.

The average portfolio duration is kept around 2, limiting interest rate risk.
