UBAM - ABSOLUTE RETURN FIXED INCOME

A flexible global credit strategy seeking the most attractive credit segments in terms of risk-reward

UBAM - Absolute Return Fixed Income offers a flexible and global credit strategy targeting a return of cash +4%

Key points

- ◆ Flexible allocation across the most attractive segments of global credit markets
- ◆ Long-term, credit-like returns adding diversification and lower correlation in a typical credit portfolio
- ◆ Investment team with an absolute-return DNA, having delivered high, stable and uncorrelated Sharpe ratios in the past
- ◆ Team of fourteen global credit and fixed-income specialists covering a broad range of instruments and always seeking the best opportunities to express an investment view
- ◆ Highly disciplined risk-management through cross-checks between top-down risk-budgeting and bottom-up risk-monitoring

Investment case

In the current climate of moderate growth and low rates, traditional index-driven strategies are generating lower returns than investors have been used to. This new regime on global credit markets requires a flexible (i.e. benchmark-agnostic), global approach to investing in fixed income.

Investors aiming at annualised returns of 4% should consider the agile strategy of UBAM - Absolute Return Fixed Income.

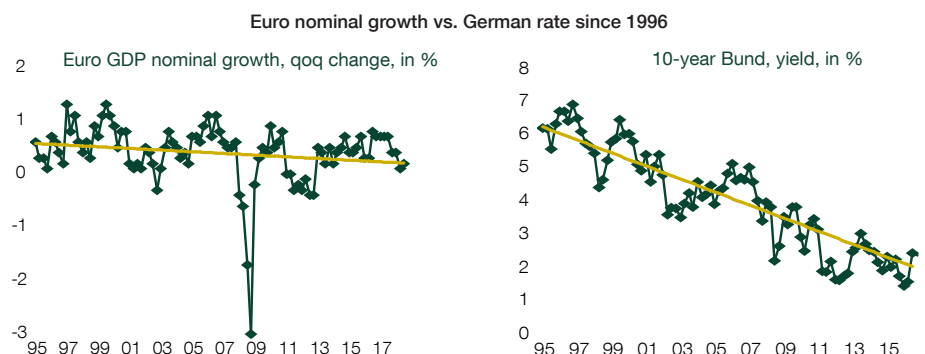

Fund concept

UBAM - Absolute Return Fixed Income seeks to provide a balanced risk-reward profile throughout macroeconomic and market cycles using a top-down allocation process across global credit markets. The strategy's agility in terms of asset exposure, with no benchmark-related constraints and a liquidity bias, allows for a proactive allocation to the most attractive credit market segment. The fund targets EONIA +4% with typical volatility of 4%.

Asset allocation and portfolio construction are tightly risk-controlled to minimise drawdown and volatility. Risk management is at the core of the investment decision-making process through the cross-checking between top-down risk budgeting and bottom-up risk monitoring. In particular, the dynamic of the asset class correlation in stressed scenarios is central to the risk budgeting.

The investment team's absolute return DNA has delivered a robust track record of risk-adjusted performance across macroeconomic cycles and financial market conditions.

Structural and demographic headwinds should keep yields low

Investment process

The investment process is based on three dimensions:

- ◆ Top-down: The team bases its investment views on macroeconomic analysis, the identification of overarching market themes, as well as sentiment and valuation analysis.
- ◆ Asset allocation: The investment views are converted into a global asset allocation after a comprehensive risk review, including volatility, correlation and drawdown analysis in normal and stress scenarios.
- ◆ Bottom-up: The portfolio construction is supported by fundamental credit research and relative value analysis. The team cross-checks and ensures consistency between the portfolio risk and the asset allocation risk analysis.
